Mathilde Storck, 57, travel group volunteer

Mathilde Storck, who volunteered for an organization that assisted airport travelers for a decade, died Friday of lung cancer at her Baltimore home. She was 57.

Born and raised in Munich, Germany, the former Mathilde Steigenberger moved to Baltimore in 1965, a year after marrying her husband, Denis, who was stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army.

Once their three children were grown, Mrs. Storck began volunteering in 1988 for Travelers Aid at Baltimore-Washington International Airport, where she assisted German-speaking travelers and others.

She spent a brief period as volunteer coordinator for the organization, leaving that post in late 1999 when Travelers Aid was no longer associated with the airport information booths.

Mrs. Storck also enjoyed gardening, sewing, knitting and traveling throughout Germany and to other European countries.

She was also an animal lover and had two cats and a dog.

"She was a very strong person, no doubt about that," said her daughter, Monica Storck of Lutherville. "She took great pride in being German."

Funeral services will be held in Munich, but friends may call at the Mitchell-Wiedefeld Funeral Home, 6500 York Road, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sept. 28.

In addition to her husband and daughter, Mrs. Storck is survived by her parents, Josef and Eleanore Steigenberger of Munich; two sons, Tony Storck of Baltimore and Chris Storck of Highland, Ohio; and one grandson.

Elsewhere

Gene Shacove, 72, a hairstylist to the stars who inspired the movie Shampoo, died Wednesday in Los Angeles of a thoracic aneurysm followed by kidney failure. His clients included George Hamilton, Lucille Ball and Marlene Dietrich. He set a trend with his loose, tousled haircuts for Jill St. John and Joey

Heatherton, fellow salon owner Allen Edwards said.

But it was his eventful love life that inspired the 1975 comedy Shampoo, starring friend Warren Beatty and written by another friend, Robert Towne.

Julie Bishop, who appeared in 84 movies from 1923 to 1957 opposite stars including Humphrey Bogart and John Wayne and in the television series My Hero with Bob Cummings in the early 1950s, died of pneumonia Aug. 30, her 87th birthday, in Mendocino, Calif., said her daughter, actress Pamela Shoop Sweeney.

Obituaries

Because of limited space and the large number of requests for obituaries, The Sun regrets that it cannot publish all the obituaries it receives. Because The Sun regards obituaries as news, we give a preference to those submitted within 48 hours of a person's death. It is also our intention to run obituaries no later than seven days after death.
